Book Recommendations

Name dropping in Nature.

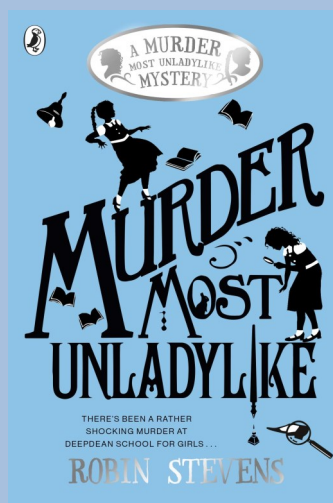

Create a poem inspired by names or a name.

You might be inspired by a name on a map or a road sign, or you might decide to make names up for insects, flowers, or feature in your local landscape. You might want to do a bit of local history and ask your parents/grandparents about place-names that are being forgotten. What are the new folk-names for the places near you? Write your own song lyric for your local landscape. Make an extinction list of imagined species. Write your own love poem to a personally precious place.

Whatever you choose to write, ask yourself how you can use your poetry to really root yourself in your local landscape.

Alice in Wonderland

By Lewis Carroll

It was very funny and extremely imaginative and creative. It is wonderful how Alice adjusts to Wonderland and it was fun comparing Britain to Wonderland. My favourite

character is Alice, because she's funny, creative, kind and curious.
